Austin Contract, Chairmanship Face New Board

By Robert E. Finneran
 Editor

Monday's election results, coupled with the announced resignation of Selectman Alan F. French, has put the issue of J. Maynard Austin's Andover tenure in sharp focus.

Also, a focal point, and due for possible decision next Monday night is the chairmanship of the board of selectmen, held for the past five years by Milton Greenberg, who did not seek re-election.

The selectmen, with two new members, are now faced not only with the decision on the manager, but also selecting a replacement for French, who will leave the board officially April 5 according to the statement released Tuesday night.

Commentary on the Austin and chairmanship issues, reveal the manager's tenure to be in a more favorable light, but not exactly secure, while the chairmanship is a matter of conjecture at this print.

Then There Was One!

Selectman Susan T. Poore remains as the only board member who voted not to renew the contract of J. Maynard Austin, after the election and French decision this week.

Mrs. Poore said Wednesday that with a new board, and given time, "Mr. Austin's performance on the job will, in fact, merit a different conclusion in the coming months.

In a prepared statement to the TOWNSMAN, Mrs. Poore indicated that in a reasonable period of time may determine that the new composition of the board "has enabled Mr. Austin to fulfill his duties at a level acceptable for renewal."

As for the principal int he case, the town manager, Mr. Austin, reverting to professional ethics, would not comment on the Monday election, pre se, nor his Andover future, simply stating, "It is up to the selectmen to make the move and the decision. The January vote still stands until such time as the board decides whether or not to reconsider it."

As for the one selectman who voted in favor of Austin in January, Richard J. Bowen feels

The Quest For The Gavel

Until the announcement by Alan French on Tuesday that he was resigning from the board, the immediate focus on the new board of selectmen was expected to be who would be the new chairman.

The four remaining members must now elect a fifth member, and whether or not a permanent chairman will be elected at the organizational session Monday night is somewhat in doubt.

French's resignation does not take effect until Tuesday, thus he will have the opportunity to vote on the chairmanship Monday night.

Selectman Susan T. Poore has openly campaigned for the chairmanship.

Selectman Richard J. Bowen, has indicated he will accept any assignment his colleagues wish, but is, no doubt, interested in the chairmanship.

Selectman Albert Cole, Jr. and Edward M. Harris while eligible, probably would not seek the chairmanship, being new members to the board.

Mrs. Poore said Monday that she will attempt to become chairman of the board when it

French Views Results, Gives Resignation

Selectman Alan F. French stunned his colleagues at a work session Tuesday night by announcing his resignation from the board effective next Tuesday.

French, referring to the Monday election in which Mrs. Janet D. Lake was defeated and two men campaigning on retention of the J. Maynard Austin as manager, said, "under the circumstances, given my clearly and publicly stated position on the manager's tenure, my presence on the board can only lead to strained relations and will complicate this vital process." (selectmen's primary duties of general appraisal and supervision of the manager.)

His action will result in the four remaining members of the board electing a member to fill the vacancy until the next annual election, thus practically a full year.

French, Mrs. Lake, Milton Greenberg and Mrs. Susan T. Poore, voted against renewal of Austin's contract in January. Greenberg dropped out of the selectmen's race in February, citing he and his family being subjected to personal and vicious comments.

French will be attending his final meeting Monday night and will be able to act on the election of a chairman, if the board decides to follow the rules adopted by the board to reorganize the first Monday following the election.

The selectman, in his statement released to his colleagues Tuesday night, said that during the controversy over the manager's tenure, he realized many people misunderstood the selectmen's role in the town manager form of government.

He indicated that Monday's vote demonstrated a desire for the continued tenure of Austin as manager, or that the "town feels more qualified than the incumbent selectmen to judge the manager's performance.

French is in his second three year term on the board.

He was re-elected two years ago after initially announcing he would not seek re-election. Shortly before the deadline for filing nomination papers French said he would again be a candidate in view of the lack of a sufficient number of candidates for the post.

While he has announced his intention to resign effective April 5, French had not as of noon on Wednesday, informed the town clerk of his decision in an official manner.

His statement:

French's Statement

To the Town of Andover:

I have submitted my resignation from the Board of Selectmen effective April 5th, 1977.

During the controversy over the Manager's tenure I came to realize that many people misunderstood the Selectmen's role in our form of government, or perhaps more accurately perceived that role differently. Nowhere is this more true than in the relationship between the Selectmen and the Manager. However, there can be no misunderstanding of the results of the election. They clearly demonstrate that the Town wishes the Manager's tenure to continue, or, more significantly from my point of view, that the Town feels more qualified than the incumbent Selectmen to judge the Manager's performance.

As I have often stated, I feel the primary job of the Selectmen is general supervision and appraisal of the Manager. Under the circumstances, given my clearly and publicly stated position on the Manager's tenure, my presence on the Board can only lead to strained relations and will complicate this vital process.

I consider it an honor to have served on the Andover Board of Selectmen these past five years. I've played no favorites and called the shots as I saw them. I have no regrets and accept the election results with good will and with best wishes for the future to all my fellow Townspeople.

Forum On Historic Districts To Be Held

A public forum on historic districts will be held Tuesday night, April 5, 7:30 at Andover's Memorial Hall Library.

Sponsored jointly by Andover's Historic District Study Committee and the League of Women Voters, the evening will consist of a panel of experts who will give short presentations, a question and answer period, and two members of the Historic District Study Committee who will be available for questions relating to the proposed Central Street historic district.

Panelists include Pat Weslowski from the Massachusetts Historical Commission, giving a brief account of the history of historic districts; Professor Lisle Baker, Associate Professor of Law at Suffolk Law School in Boston, speaking on the legal issues involved in historic districts; Stephen E. Aradas, regional planner, chairman of Haverhill's Historical Commission, and resident of Rocks Village Historic District in Haverhill; and Howard Curtis, chairman of Bradford Common Historic District, talking about the workings, compromises, and rulings of a Historic District Commission. Curtis was instrumental in the nomination of the industrial-commercial Washington St. Shoe District to the National Historic Register, and is also now involved in the formation of that area as a local historic district.

The Study Committee and the League of Women Voters urge all citizens to attend and hope that the information presented from state, regional and local perspectives will provide a better understanding of historical districts for residents who will be voting on this issue at Town Meeting in May.

Main Street Featured In Special Showing

There will be a free slide-show presentation next Sunday, April 3, at 3 p.m. at the home of the Andover Historical Society, 97 Main St.

Subject of the show is "Main Street Andover Since the Turn of the Century." This presentation will trace the evolution of buildings and businesses along the central artery of Andover during the last seven decades.

The showing includes script prepared by Charles Bowman and Arthur Kerwien, and background music. It will last about 40 minutes.

Sunday's meeting is planned by the Society's educational committee headed by Mrs. Mary Winstrom. George Glennie will be at the projector.

This presentation should be of interest both to old timers who like to reminisce and to younger people and more recent arrivals who want to see how today's Main Street got to be the way it now is.

Admission is free. The public is invited.

Career Night At High School

Andover High School is planning a Career Night on April 28 from 7 to 10 p.m. Students and parents are invited and encouraged to attend.

The program will feature local people with experience and expertise in their fields, speaking and answering questions pertaining to opportunities, training, and other pertinent information relevant to their vocations.

Careers to be discussed will include law enforcement, travel, office occupations, business, health, floral-landscape-interior design, restaurant management, trades, and other services.

Each career category will meet for approximately 45 minutes in assigned rooms. At the end of each session, the visitors may choose to go to another session of interest, enabling them to obtain first-hand information on as many as three career fields.

Exam At Voke Saturday

The Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School will conduct a make-up entrance examination on Saturday, April 2, at 8 a.m. in the James A. Booth Lectorium, Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School, 57 River Road, Andover.

Town House Topics

More Ducks Killed By Dogs

The duck population at the pond owned by Sidney P. White on Argilla Road has been further reduced with three more killed this week by dogs.

White said he found the three ducks Monday morning on the ground near the pond torn apart by dogs who have been attacking the birds all winter.

White, who is an advocate of a stronger leash law in town, reported that there are now seven ducks remaining from a flock which numbered almost 30 before the winter weather set in.

Downs Is Acting Chief

William T. Downs, senior deputy fire chief, will remain as acting chief of the department until a final date for the formal retirement of Chief Henry L. Hilton is determined.

Hilton has announced his retirement with the effective date to be determined through the terminal leave and vacation provisions of his tenure.

Downs has been serving as acting chief since last fall when Chief Hilton went on medical leave from the department.

The fire chief position is not a civil service appointment. The tenured position is filled by appointment of the town manager with the approval of the selectmen.

School Committee Meets Tonight

The Andover School Committee will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Stowe School to greet new members Alan Doerr and Casimir Kolaski and to elect a chairman and secretary.

The first regular session will be held Tuesday, same time, same place.

Selectmen To Organize Monday

The selectmen will meet Monday in the meeting room at Memorial Hall library at 7:30 p.m. with the first order of business reorganization. By rules adopted by the board, the selectmen meet the Monday following the town election to choose a chairman and vice chairman.

Also on the agenda will be a discussion of the status of the Abbot Well which is now closed for repair. The board must determine whether to go ahead with repairs for the well or not.

Brundrett avenue will also be on the agenda, with decisions due as to whether to close the street to traffic, or not. Problems have arisen over the past several months with persons congregating at the end of the street, as well as speeding on the road.

Budget Review Keeps Boards In Session

The selectmen have scheduled meetings almost daily through early next week to provide for review of the municipal budget to be presented to the annual town meeting.

The meetings are posted for morning and evening sessions almost daily in order to cover provisions of the open meeting law. This week the members met Tuesday morning and evening in work sessions.

Next Tuesday night there will be a joint meeting of the school committee, selectmen and finance committee at 6:30 p.m. to discuss the Cherry Sheet figures again, as the FinCom prepares to make its final determinations before submitting its recommendations to the printer.

Special Session Third Night

A special town meeting will be held within the regular town meeting this year. The 11-article warrant (Continued on Page 52)

Letting Manager Manage Is A Cole Priority

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 31, 1977

Janet & Albert Cole, Jr.

Getting the board of selectmen organized within themselves, establish policy for the manager to follow and let the manager manage, will be the goals of newly-elected Selectman Albert Cole, Jr.

Cole, an Andover native and retired deputy fire chief, topped the voting in Monday's selectmen's race with 3,210 votes. He campaigned on the issue of retaining the incumbent manager and in the post-election celebration Monday night said he did not plan on a call for a new vote on J. Maynard Austin's contract for several weeks.

Cole said he felt the new board should work with the manager for a while and see what a different board with a different attitude would produce.

Having served on several town boards and committees and retired from the municipal service, Cole sees no problem in official relations with the town employees, now that he is a selectman.

The firefighters have been in negotiation for a new contract for over a year and have been to fact finding. As for negotiations with the department with which he served, Cole said, "this is in the manager's province. I think the selectmen should keep out of negotiations and let the manager handle that, since it is his responsibility."

Cole wants to see the new board set direction for the manager, he in turn pass on responsibilities to department heads and let the various departments run as they should be in a step-by-step administrative setup.

He also sees a need to establish communications between the manager, selectmen, town boards and committees.

To encourage the reuse of paper bags, egg cartons and milk containers, the Red Owl supermarkets in the mid-West gave a three-cent refund for refilling an egg carton, a four-cent refund for refilling glass or plastic milk containers, and a two-cent refund each time a plastic bag was refilled. ## New England Shows

The New England economy recovery pressed forward in 1977 despite the problems stemming from the harsh winter weather. The number of New England jobs registered a moderate increase during January after a slight decline in the previous month. The New England employment rate during January was 5.5 percent. However, cutbacks in work schedules and other factors due to storm-related conditions were responsible for a slight decline in the region's manufacturing output. Construction and other activities also were hampered by the severe weather. Most of the region's economic recovery continued to show substantial improvement over the early months of the recovery.

Nonagricultural employment in New England continued to improve in January, increasing 14,400 jobs from the previous month to a seasonally adjusted total of 4,789,400. The January 1976 amount was 4,789,400.

He Won The Election But Lost To The Flu

While campaign workers and friends rejoiced on his election to the Andover Board of Selectmen Monday night, Edward M. Harris was in bed nursing the effects of the flu.

Harris, a retired U. S. Army Colonel, educator and author of a book on Andover's participation in the American Revolution, had been able to get through the rigors of the campaign up to the last moments, but late Monday had to give in to a high fever and just rest.

Tuesday morning, he was able to make it to town hall to be sworn in and state that he was "very pleased with the victory and appreciative of the support. I wasn't at all times sure which way the vote would go, being a novice at the political game."

Reflecting on his vote, Harris said it "indicated a dissatisfaction with the board as it was composed." As for the manager's contract, an issue on which he campaigned and affirmed that he would vote to retain J. Maynard Austin, Harris said, "It is a question, of course, whether he will stay. I intend to resolve the issue soon. I would like to see him retained. Insofar as I have any influence, I intend to have the issue resolved as soon as possible."

Prior to the resignation of Selectman Alan F. French, announced Tuesday night, Harris considered the manager issue the number one priority with finding some solutions to budget problems created by the loss of state revenues right behind.

New England Economy Shows Favorable Signs

The New England economic recovery pressed forward in early 1977 despite the problems stemming from the unusually harsh winter weather. The number of New Englanders with jobs registered a modest gain during January after allowance was made for normal seasonal factors. The New England unemployment rate declined. However, cutbacks in factory work schedules and other disruptions due to storm-related conditions were responsible for a slight decline in the output of the region's manufacturing plants. Construction and other outdoor activities also were hard-hit by the severe weather. Most sectors of the region's economy continued to show substantial improvement over the earlier part of the recovery.

Nonagricultural payroll employment in New England continued to improve in January, increasing 14,400 jobs during the month to a seasonally adjusted total of 4,789,400. The gain from January 1976 amounted to 91,600 jobs. The month-to-month employment increase was principally due to an addition of 12,500 jobs in nonmanufacturing activities. Small increases in both durable goods and nondurable goods manufacturing employment accounted for the remainder of the gain. Measuring the change from January of last year, nonmanufacturing employers added 59,200 jobs and manufacturing plants added 32,400 jobs.

Unemployment in New England declined in January to a seasonally adjusted rate of 7.6 percent from 8.0 percent in December and 10.0 percent in January 1976, based on revised estimates by state employment security agencies. The national unemployment rate averaged 7.3 percent in January, compared with 7.8 percent in December. Revisions in methods of estimating state unemployment and labor force statistics are expected to result in more accurate estimates of the unemployment situation in the region.

Militia Planning Founders' Day Ball

The Andover Co. of Militia is currently making final preparations for a townwide Founders Day Ball, to be held at the Andover Country Club on the evening of May 6.

The dance is being held to celebrate the Founding of the Town of Andover and it is hoped that there will be enough support from the town to make it an annual town event.

There are few opportunities during the course of the year for the citizens of Andover to participate in a common event. The Militia feels that this ball presents an excellent opportunity for all the various organizations and individuals in the town to get together for an enjoyable evening of dancing.

Music for the dance will be provided by a live combo and a light buffet will be served during the evening. Colonial dress for the evening will be welcomed but is by no means required. Further information on the ball is currently being sent to the various clubs and organizations within the town.

Interested individuals or organizations should contact either Capt. Eric Heartquist or Sgt. Robert Mirisola for reservations or further details.

Nominated For N.E.C. Presidency

William R. Driver, Jr., chairman of the board, has announced that the executive committee has voted to recommend to the trustees Dr. James Stanley Ballinger for their consideration and approval as the next president of the New England Conservatory of Music.

In making its nomination, the executive committee was endorsing the recommendation of the Trustees' Presidential Search Committee, chaired by James L. Terry and aided in its year-long search by the Faculty Advisory Committee and a group of student representatives.

The trustees will meet to consider the nomination on April 12. Upon confirmation Dr. Ballinger will succeed Gunther Schuller as president of the nation's oldest independent college of music, leaving his position as Chairman of the Music Department at Northern Illinois University to assume his new duties as of July 1.

This Time It Was A Victory Celebration

Casimir Kolaski

By Linda S. Corbett

The well-wishers stayed on and on at the Kolaski's Monday night in a celebration they'd been waiting a year for.

It was only last March that Casimir Kolaski, on election night, turned up two votes short of the winner. But his organization stayed together and one of his first concerns Tuesday was to thank all the people who had worked for him — about 200 all told this time around.

Weary from turning in just before 3 a.m., and arising for the first phone call before 7, Kolaski said the town clearly showed Monday that it wanted a more open and responsive school committee than it has had in the past.

"I will do my best," he said, "to see that it happens."

Kolaski predicted "a different committee in a different kind of atmosphere," and said his first priority will be the enrollment problem. He intends to propose at the earliest opportunity — probably next Tuesday night's committee meeting — that they put together a citizens' committee to look at the secondary and elementary enrollments.

He said he feels it's premature to talk about closing down any schools, and that he feels "fairly strongly" against phasing out Shawsheen School — a plan proposed by outgoing Committeeman Frank Griggs at his last meeting.

Kolaski said the committee should start from the ground up "with our own projections, area by area."

It is not unreasonable, he said, to consider redistricting.

Shawsheen, he said, has contributed a disproportionate number of youngsters to the traditional program and West may have the opposite space problem if the traditional program continues to grow there.

One answer, Kolaski said, would be to go back to district lines more nearly resembling those of the past, sending some of the West pupils back to Shawsheen.

Kolaski would also like to take in the near future a regular practice of opening up each school committee meeting for a set period of public discussion — say 10 to 15 minutes.

"This is something that has always bothered me," he said. "Sometimes people go to a school meeting wanting to talk about something that concerns them, and it's been taken off the agenda."

"This is a small enough town," he added, "that we don't have to be too hyper-formal and parliamentary."

Curriculum-wise, Kolaski said he would like to start looking at secondary programs because he feels they've been getting the "short shrift" while the town has spent a lot of time on elementary school issues.

Kolaski attributed a lot of his success to the fact that having done it once, he had a tremendous organization of people who kind of knew what to do. "That was beautiful," he said.

The biggest innovation this year was "poll checking." Kolaski explained they had identified "a couple thousand people" that they thought would vote for him — then had people at the polls Monday to see who voted and who didn't. About 4:30 a group of "40 to 50" Kolaski campaign workers began calling people just to remind them to vote — no hard sell for their candidate.

They called something like 1500, Kolaski said, and found a lot of people who said they had forgotten to go.

It was a light turnout, he said, "and we thought it was the thing to do."

The "Cas campaign" also started earlier this year — all the more reason, perhaps, while Jennifer and C.J., in the kindergarten and second grade at Shawsheen, seemed to be glad it was all over. Meanwhile, Kolaski's wife Linda, remembering the disappointment of a year ago, wore a weary smile as she picked up the remnants of a celebration.

The selectmen, now in their second year of a three-year term, said she had talked with members of the board and that time candidates would be chosen of her desire.

She added that she felt the board was in need of a "seasoned" chairman and that she felt qualified to handle the position.

Bowen, who will be a remaining senior member, "as to the chairmanship of the board of selectmen," prepared to serve in an advisory capacity on the board which she promised to accomplish identifying and adding a variety of sometimes frequently exciting projects to the town's agenda. Andover today a day to come.

Bowen indicated a continuation with the organization board a year ago and hoped the situation would be similar this year. He said the matter having been resolved before the organization got underway.

Special Services Set For Passover

George Urdang, president of Temple Emanuel, 483 Lowell St., Lawrence, has announced that services will be held throughout the Passover Festival at Temple Emanuel. The congregational Passover Seder observed by members of the congregation and their families will be held on Sunday evening beginning at 6 p.m. It seder will be conducted by the Temple Rabbi, Harry A. Roth. Once again this year the group gathering for the Seder will be using the new beautiful Haggadah which was published two years ago by the Central Conference of American Rabbis. This Passover Haggadah contains a series of magnificent drawings by the artist Leonard Baskin.

Festival Services will be conducted by Rabbi Roth and Cantor Irving Shuman on Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m. the first day of the Passover Holidays.

The closing day of Passover begins on Friday night, April 8, with a special service at which time note will be taken of the Memorial Plaques mounted on the Yahrzeit Boards during the previous year, and Yizkor Memorial Services will be held. Since Temple Emanuel follows the Liberal tradition, the tradition which is observed by Jews in the land of Israel, the concluding day of the Festival will be Saturday, April 9. Services that day will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will also include Yizkor Memorial Prayers. In the United States, Jews who follow the more traditional calendar will conclude the Passover Festival on Sunday, April 10.

More than any other holiday Pesach is filled with symbolism, mindful of slavery and freedom, the rebirth of nature, compassion for the needy, and hope for a radiant future. Families gather together on the first night of Pesach to share in the ritual of repeating the story of the Jewish people's exodus from Egyptian bondage to freedom in the Promised Land. The Seder which combines almost every symbolic element of the Passover celebration, is conducted from the Haggadah, one of the most widely printed and commented on books in all of Jewish tradition.

reorganizes next Monday.

The selectmen, now in the second year of a three-year-term, said she had talked to all members of the board, (and at that time candidates) and told them of her desire.

She added that she felt the board was in need of a "transitional" chairman and that she felt qualified to handle the duties.

Bowen, who will be the only remaining senior member, said, "as to the chairmanship of the board of selectmen, I am prepared to serve in any capacity on the board which offers some promise of accomplishment in identifying and addressing a variety of sometimes serious and frequently exciting problems facing Andover today and in the days to come."

Bowen indicated a dissatisfaction with the organization of the board a year ago and said he hoped the situation would not be similar this year. He referred to matter having been resolved long before the organizational session got underway.

Cole said he was open-minded about the chairmanship at this point and Harris said he wouldn't venture any thoughts on the matter as of the moment.

French declined to comment on his feelings regarding the chairmanship when contacted Wednesday morning.

The Victor Gets Time To Fix His Car

Alan Doerr

By Linda S. Corbett

Alan Doerr spent the day after victory Tuesday "doing all the stuff — like fixing the car — he'd been 'letting go' during the past few weeks of his campaign for school committee.

A little surprised and very pleased at his success the first time out in the political area, Doerr said he had launched a face-to-face campaign about five weeks ago and spent every spare minute going door-to-door and standing in front of banks and supermarkets, trying to meet as many people as possible.

He was encouraged by the positive response he got from voters, and took advantage of the time to try to assess what they wanted from their schools.

The point that came across loudest and strongest, he said, was that most people want to maintain both programs in Andover — the contemporary and the new traditional — with "quality" in both.

Doerr, who has always been involved in education and interested in youngsters, decided to run for school committee about a year ago, but was too involved with his work to jump into last year's campaign.

He attributed much of his success to an organization headed by neighbor Jim Hallice. "All they did was point me in the direction I was supposed to go," he laughs. Doerr's wife, Donna, whom he describes as "an organizer," also participated actively, with Melissa, who's almost three, in tow.

Doerr's son Christopher is a first grader in the traditional program at West Elementary, and while Doerr drew heavy support from the traditional school parents, he claims he "doesn't like handles."

"When people asked me if I was liberal or conservative," he said, "I said, 'I'm myself.'"

Doerr estimated that his twice-a-week coffees were about "half and half" traditional and contemporary parents, and said he has been involved in individualized programs at Lowell University, where he heads the math department.

He also feels the choice of alternatives in Andover should depend on the personality of child, not a parental label. He said he and his wife sat down and discussed their son for hours before deciding which was best for him.

Doerr said he thought the main concern of all the committee for a while is going to be the budget. At Tuesday's first meeting, he said they would probably find out if they were getting money back from the state because of errors that had been made in computing the Cherry Sheets.

He doesn't have any immediate suggestions about where cuts could be made, saying he prefers to wait for Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert's reports on how various areas would or would not be affected.

Another of his concerns during coming weeks will be to open lines of communication and promote responsibility and concern among members of the committee.

He couldn't say that communications have been totally lacking, because people do show up at school committee sessions. However, he said, it's one of those things that needs to be continually addressed.

"We can always use more," he said.

Institute Receives Historic Art Objects

During the last six months the Essex Institute of Salem has been the fortunate recipient of a number of objects of considerable historic as well as artistic interest and importance. Particularly significant is a large 17th century silver tankard made by Edward Winslow (1668-1753) of Boston and displaying his mark. In the Parker family for many years, the tankard was made for Capt. William Pickering (b.1670) of Salem. It is the gift of Sally Parker (Mrs. Robert B.M.) Barton of Marblehead. Beautifully proportioned and discreetly detailed, the tankard is a handsome addition to our silver collection.

Two pieces of furniture in the ornately inlaid French Renaissance Revival style, together with their original 1869 bill of sale from Israel Fellows, Salem Cabinetmaker, have been given to the Institute by Mr. Warren Bubier and Miss Madeline Bubier of East Providence, R. I. The parlor table and matching dwarf French cabinet were part of a suite ordered by Samuel M. Bubier, the mayor of Lynn in 1877-78 and the donors' grandfather.

From Mrs. Allison Hardy Dempsey the museum has also received a small collection of tinware which was presented to the donor's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Hardy of Boston, on their tenth — tin wedding anniversary in 1883. Among the seventeen objects is a tin ostrich feather.

A set of three Hitchcock-type chairs with cornucopia back splats, has been donated by Janet Gordon. Dating from c. 1830, they originally belonged to Thomas and Mary Cousins of Salem.

Among other objects recently added by gift to the collections are: miniature silver toys, on loan to the Institute since the early part of this century; a large sampler made by Sarah Todd in 1807; some 1870s dresses; and an oil portrait by Charles Osgood

Janet Lake and husband, Herbert Disappointed At Loss

Mrs. Janet D. Lake, defeated Monday in her bid for reelection to another three year term on the board of selectmen, expressed deep disappointment at her loss in Monday's election.

"I worked harder than that for this town," Mrs. Lake said reflecting on her loss by close to 200 votes.

The town's first woman selectman no doubt suffered from the decision not to renew the contract of J. Maynard

Austin when it expires in August, Mrs. Lake said Tuesday, "I still believe my decision concerning Maynard was the correct one."

A low voter turnout may also have been a contributor to her defeat, but Mrs. Lake looked upon those not exercising their franchise as "having voted."

"By their decision not to vote, they in essence voted. They, in a sense, say they accept the decision of those who did vote."

Mrs. Lake was elected to the board three years ago by a wide majority and during her tenure served on committees for the Mass. League of Cities and Towns and was on the Essex County Advisory Board.

She was also active with the council on aging and at the Andover Haven.

Course For Pre-schoolers

What to do on a lovely spring day with your pre-schooler? Come to the Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary on Perkins Row in Topsfield and spend an hour with a teacher/naturalist discovering the wonders of field and forest as seen through young eyes. Fours And Fives is a special 6 week course for mother, father, or favorite adult and child which begins Wednesday, April 13. There are sections for morning and afternoon to fit nursery school and kindergarten schedules and each group is kept small to allow individual attention. Ideas for things to do at home with the rest of the family, books to read and interesting places to visit are agiven out each week. Emphasis is on letting the child explore and share his delight with his mother, father or another adult friend. For more information call or write the sanctuary office.

Down through the ages rabbits have been associated with good luck because they produced large numbers of offspring which meant they had a procreative power superior to other animals, Massachusetts Audubon says. The rabbit's foot therefore became a talisman for success and prosperity.

A Superb Performance

"For God's sake let us sit upon the ground and tell the sad stories of the death of kings..."

From the time that line is spoken until the words "The Once and Future King" are heard, the four readers, three singers, and pianist that compose the cast of The Hollow Crown, A.C.T.'s most recent play, dramatize, eulogize, satirize, and summarize the lives and deaths of the crowned heads of England between 1087 ("in the mean season") to 1838, with the coronation of Victoria.

A.C.T. presented the play to small crowds on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 25-27, at West Elementary school. The readers, three men and one woman (Al Swenson, Lyn Hutten, John Hutten, and Barry Bragen) gave superb performances of the unusual play, originally performed by the Royal Shakespeare Company, with musical interludes of madrigal and solo singing by a trio that included Keith Gould of the AHS Music faculty. Their parts, which were read — the chronicle of the death of Kings, including Richard Coeur-de-Lion, John Lackland, and Stephen; the History of England by Miss Jane Austen, a Partial, Ignorant, and Prejudiced Historian; and Queen Victoria's account of her own coronation — acted — such as Henry VII considering marriage; the trial of Charles I; and the death of King Arthur — and some were just, well, delivered, such as the unwrapping of George IV by Thackeray, or Henry VIII writing a love-letter to Anne Boleyn.

For those uninitiated, there was available a booklet of historical notes on the royal personages and their contemporaries (i.e., Fanny Burney, Jane Austen, Robert Walpole). For all that attended, it was an experience, just as it was an experience for Rick Winterson, the director, and the actors and musicians (Mark Johnson, Leonard Keirstead, Keith Gould, Debbie Brown) and other assorted help (including yours truly).

A.C.T. is considering The Hollow Crown for its N.E.T.C. performance in May.

Two Plays In Rehearsal

By Walter Hunt

The Drama club is in the process of assembling itself for yet another production this year.

Robert King, who brought you "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and "The Mouse That Roared" in recent years is producing two plays for AHS this year: "You Can't Take It With You", and "Any Number Can Die." They will appear on the evenings of April 29 and 30, beginning at 7.

An anomaly of this year's production is the "double feature" concept; Mr. King has chosen to do two individual dramas this year, and has chosen David G. Stein as director of the second play "Any Number Can Die". Dave is a senior, and it is his first effort at directing. He agreed to answer a few questions and provide this reporter with some information.

First, about the play: "The plot is exactly like 'Murder By Death,'" he said. "This old eccentric dies and his heirs are invited to an old mansion for the midnight reading of a will. Naturally, since the estate is worth a fortune, things proceed in a less than peaceful manner."

The play will feature some notable special effects, including some unique ways of killing off the heirs. This constitutes an important part of the play, as the action builds to a climax, a comedy to the very last.

The cast of twelve include Andy Campbell as the male lead and Beth Young as his female counterpart. Also in the cast are: Dan Edelstein, Ellen Gable, Dave Livingston, Tanya Hopkins, Dave Shirstaian, Patty O'Connor, Keith Clark, Jane Cormier, Mike Scanlon, and Eileen Eisenhaur. Together with Jeri Zeder, his assistant director, Dave has been working with his crew diligently two afternoons a week.

Any problems? "Not many," says Dave. "Trouble is minimal. You'd think that, since I'm a student and not a teacher, the cast would try to get away with more; but everyone is working quite diligently and not fooling around. It's an educational experience." "Actually," he added, "the play itself has been causing problems with its format. The stage directions are sometimes vague, so that the actors have to do their own blocking." Blocking deals with the orientation of the actors with respect to the audience. "It's very difficult, but everybody's working hard; all of the actors, Jeri and myself and — oh, don't forget to mention Minda Halberstadt, our stage manager. She's doing a terrific job." Indeed, it must be contagious.

EJHS Happenings

By Renee Pruneau

Spring is the time for fairs and at East there's no exception. On March 24 we held our annual Science Fair. The entire school set up science projects, which they had been working on for the past month, in the gym and cafeteria. Some projects were mold and bacteria, "How does the color of food affect its taste?", Hydroponics and many, many more. There were an average of eight students chosen by each science teacher to be a finalist. It took the judges over two hours to decide upon the winners, that shows how fantastic these projects were.

Here are the winners of the 1977 EJHS Science Fair, first place in the seventh grade Glen Barne second place David Eckoff, and third Jon Atanasoff; eighth grade first place Scott Lindstrom, second Lori Stevens, and third Cindy Cratty; in the ninth grade first place went to Brian Kenny, second place to Chris Heiter and third place to Chris Witt; those who received honorable mention included Robin Reynolds, Suzanne Russell, Beth Haskell, Carol Anderson, Pat Canavan and Lucy Niedzwicki.

On March 25, East Junior High had its Spring Dance. This was sponsored by the Student Council. The Social Committee decorated the gym with green, yellow, blue, and pink streamers. Instead of a band we had, by popular demand, A DJ. Social Committee members also baked and sold refreshments. On a whole the dance was a success. Everyone enjoyed the music and the DJ, who had a great rapport with his audience.

EJHS and WJHS got to know each other a little better in the past couple of weeks. We participated in an Editor Exchange Day. The EJH newspaper editor, Lucy Niedzwicki, and the yearbook editor, Renee Pruneau, spent March 15, at West going to their co-editors classes. After spending this day at West the East editors discovered that the students there are extremely friendly and they are confident that the rivalry expressed at sport events etc. . . will disappear when we all meet in the high school. On March 25 the West co-editors came to visit East. We hope that they enjoyed their day as much as our editors enjoyed West.

Preventive Practice

Mrs. Robert Kellan, right, demonstrates where to apply pressure for food removal from a choking child, which will be the subject of a special clinic conducted by the Lawrence General Hospital Aid Association. Mrs. Neville Rosen observes the demonstration on son Nicholas Rosen.

Being A Prepared Parent

Are you able to prevent your child from choking?

Each year almost 4,000 otherwise healthy Americans die from food choking. Many of these are young children who not only put foreign objects in their mouths, but often run with pieces of food in their mouths. Still others are teenagers who rush through meals while talking, laughing, and often only partially chewing food to be swallowed.

It is important, then, for parents to become familiar with a simple, effective method of dislodging food that is blocking the airway and may cause a child to die of strangulation in four minutes.

With this in mind, the Community Health Education Committee of the Lawrence General Hospital's Aid Association invites all parents to attend, free of charge, a one hour choke clinic to be presented in the Kurth Auditorium of LGH on Monday, April 4, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Parents will be instructed via film and demonstrations in the use of the Heimlich Maneuver, a simple, practical method developed by Henry J. Heimlich, M.D., and one which can be used by persons with no prior medical emergency training. Dr. Neville

Rosen, Director of Respiratory Therapy at LGH will further explain and demonstrate the technique and answer any pertinent questions.

If planning to attend, report promptly to the Main Lobby of LGH between 9 and 9:15 a.m. Guides will then conduct you to the auditorium. Take an hour of your time — it could be a matter of life — or death.

Committee members include: Vera Beaumont, Annette Cohen, Jayne deConstant, Sally Jeffery, Janeth Haslam, Connie LeMaitre, Phylis Park and chairman, Pauline Kellan.

Floral Arranger To Be Guest

The first Spring meeting of the November Club will be held at the Clubhouse, 7 Locke Street, on Monday, April 4. Dessert will be served at 1:15 and the program will start at 1:30. Past presidents of the club will be honored this day.

Ann Anderson, floral arranger, will present "Fabrics, Fashions and Flowers." Ann has been a blue ribbon winner in flower shows sponsored by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts. This program is the result of her working extensively with Lieter Designer Fabrics and doing interpretive flower arranging. Greeters will be Mrs. Richard Rothwell and Mrs. Anthony Sakowich.

Mrs. Preston H. Blake and Mrs. Charles A. Currier will pour at the tea table.

Film On Southwest To Be Shown

Bridge Winners

Gloria Gottesfeld, 4 Forbes Lane, Andover and Mrs. W. J. Albenheim, Waban were among Master Point winners at the 1977 Spring North American Championships of the American Contract Bridge League here March 18-27.

They won first in a section of a one-session event.

After the regular business meeting members will be entertained by the co-owners of the Desert Gallery of 247 Main St., North Andover.

Misses Kathie Cooper and Thea Fournier will show a film to acquaint the members with the people of the southwest and their cultures and lifestyles. These girls lived among the natives there and have a first hand experience to enlighten us with.

Hostess Chairman for the evening are Mrs. Cornelius D. Shea and Mrs. Andrew M. Innes.

The response of some insects to less daylight is diapause, a period of dormancy between stages of growth, Massachusetts Audubon tells us. A change of ten to fifteen minutes of daylight can trigger the process even when the eyes of the insect have been removed.

Andona To Conduct Screening Program

The Andona Society will be conducting its annual Amblyopia (lazy eye) vision screening in conjunction with the town pre-kindergarten orientation sessions the weeks of April 11 and April 24.

All parents of children who are eligible for this screening have received a letter from the principal of their neighborhood elementary school notifying them of the specific scheduling.

Mrs. Wilfred Schwarz, Jr. has been assisted by Mrs. Douglas Mitchell, Mrs. Raymond Hopkinson, and Mrs. Jeremy Smith in co-ordinating the volunteer efforts of the Andona Society members.

To facilitate this part of the screening, it would be helpful if the parents could teach their children the E game by using a large capital E and showing them how to point with their hands the way the E points — up, down, right and left.

CLASS Benefit Aids Special Services

CLASS got off to a classy start Sunday with a posh "Fantasy in Flowers and Fashion" Benefit at Joe Binette's Chalet, Middleton.

CLASS, which stands for the newly-organized Citizens League for Adult Special Services, sponsored the program to benefit its pilot program which opened this week at Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School.

The class, for the adult retarded not covered by the provisions of Chapter 766, is culmination of months of concerted effort by a small group of concerned parents and friends.

They approached the board of directors of Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School and its school committee which offered a comprehensive program of adult education and outlined the need of the adult retarded. There was no alternative being provided for them by either the state Department of Education or of Mental

The school was most receptive to the idea, provided classroom space and equipped it with arts and crafts materials.

The pilot program was launched through a grant from the legacy left to West Parish Church by Mrs. Susanne Smith Purdon, a longtime resident of Andover. When the grant has been made outside the parish, it has been given to service human needs.

CLASS received $10,000 from the fund to meet the needs of these retarded over 22 who were too old when Chapter 766 became law to benefit by its provisions.

The Department of Mental Health assigned two staff persons, Nancy Coady as director and an assistant to conduct the class which is expected to become a model for similar programs all over the country. It has been filled already, but if it proves successful, CLASS plans to expand and is already negotiating to obtain land adjacent to the Vo-Tech to ultimately realize a building of its own to house similar classes and a sheltered workshop.

Sunday afternoon CLASS leaders who have brought the new program into being were joined by supporters and friends at their first benefit. Among the patrons were Mrs. Phyllis Farnon of South Africa, Mrs. Henry Arali of Egypt and Mrs. J. Labrecque of Canada.

Mrs. Rosalie Ruggiero was general chairman, assisted by a large committee.

Organic Gardening Topic For Session

"Organic Gardening Works" will be the subject discussed by Pam Wolfe at the Andover Garden Club morning meeting on April 5 at the Andover Country Club.

Pam is a constant student, researcher, experimenter and observer of soil health and organics. She is a regular staff writer for New England Gardening Magazine and has written for Horticulture Magazine. Coffee will be served at 9:30 by the Hostesses Mrs. Charles G. Hatch and Mrs. Douglas N. At the Suburban Experiment Station, Waltham, a Horticulture Meeting will be held April 25, as well as the Landscape Design School Course IV on April 26 through the 28th. The Junior Gardeners meet April 2 to learn about House Plant Care and Swap.

The Andover Garden Club has joined in partnership with The American Land Trust, a new nationwide land preservation effort headed by a citizen's committee of distinguished conservation, business, and civic leaders. Established in early 1976, The American Land Trust seeks to preserve $200 million worth of significant natural lands, at least one prime area in each of the 50 states during its two-year campaign. Donations of land and funds to preserve qualifying lands are being sought from concerned private individuals, clubs, and corporations. Nathaniel P. Reed, Assistant Secretary of the U. S. Department of the Interior, is the Trust's Honorary Chairman.

To carry out its program, the Trust has enlisted the assistance of The Nature Conservancy and the National Council of State Garden Clubs, of which the Andover Garden Club is a member. The Nature Conservancy, a leading national non-profit conservation organization, was selected to acquire and manage natural areas identified for preservation. The Conservancy, headquartered in Arlington, Virginia, has saved over a million acres of outstanding lands since its inception in 1951.

National Council of State Garden Clubs, the largest gardening organization in the world with 400,000 members and over 13,000 clubs, has pledged its support to The American Land Trust by informing the public of the campaign, and by fund-raising for preservation projects. The special joint program is called a "Partnership in Land Conservation" and is the most extensive volunteer project ever undertaken by National Council.

Since its founding, The American Land Trust has been involved in preservation projects from Maine to Washington. Twelve ecologically outstanding areas have been donated thus far, and thirty-two separate fund-raising efforts are underway across the country.

The East Junior High School gymnasium and cafeteria took on rather a Hynes Auditorium air last Thursday night, as science students — an average of eight had been chosen by each science teacher as finalists — displayed the projects on which they'd been working for the past month.

Andover's Disastrous Elections

Municipal elections in Andover have become a disaster.

Monday's turnout at the polls, lower than previous years, was unfair to the candidates — both winners and losers.

With close to 15,000 voters registered in the town, it is sad commentary to have only 4,806 turn out in pleasant weather conditions to make decisions on who should govern the affairs of the community.

There were issues before the voters this year. In the selectmen's race, there was the paramount issue of the status of the incumbent manager. In the school committee race there was the matter of education, economy and communication.

Even the Housing Authority race was spirited this year, with two men seeking to fill a vacancy on the board.

The candidates got out to meet the people, conducted themselves through carious meetings, coffees, candidates sessions and used all means available to them to get their message to the people of Andover.

Still the turnout was only 4,806. A year ago, the voter turnout again on the poor side was 5,404 and in 1975 there were 5,380 Andover voters deciding on their leadership.

Weather could not be an excuse. Election day has been moved up to avoid possible late winter storms, sometimes a factor on the first Monday in March — the previous town election day.

There were excuses about the new polling locations and this too, is invalid when offering it as a reason for not voting.

There was sufficient notice of the change in polling location where applicable. Street listings of the new precinct composition was carried in the columns of this newspaper as was a map, roughly outlining the precinct boundaries.

Residents were notified by the town clerk's office of their change in voting location.

To make things even easier, the candidates this year offered transportation to the polls and advertised telephone numbers which could be called for such assistance.

Thus, when one attempts to evaluate the reasons why voters don't turn out on election day in Andover, it becomes difficult.

It could be that generally, Andover voters don't care except for the two days a year when the real estate tax bill arrives — and then it's too late.

Commendable Move

In line with commentary on apathy by Andover voters, we would begin now by asking that local residents pencil in the week of May 9 for the annual town meeting.

The date has been changed due to a commendable move by Charles Wesson, chairman of the Finance Committee.

With the status of state reimbursements in doubt and the town on the verge of losing upwards of a million and half dollars, Wesson asked the selectmen, manager and school committee to a meeting a couple of weeks ago.

Also to be considered was impending changes in both boards, two new school committee members for sure and at least one new selectmen at that point in time.

Wesson suggested that time would be needed by the new town officers, as well as some additional work on proposed budgets in view of the reduction in state funds.

There was general agreement and the new date was set for the week of May 9, with the session to run consecutive nights until all business is transacted.

The finance committee is composed of a group of people who devote considerable voluntary time to examining the town's financial needs and departmental desires.

It is often a thankless task, but a necessary one.

Mr. Wesson, since assuming the chairmanship, has displayed a sincere interest in working for the town's best interests and we concur with his effort to strike an agreement among other town boards on postponing town meeting action.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Chilean Dictators Had Role In Embassy Row Killings

by Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

WASHINGTON — Last September, the former Chilean Foreign Minister, Orlando Letelier, was blown up as he was driving down Embassy Row here. A co-worker, Ronni Moffit, also died in the blast. The lone survivor of the tragedy, Ronni's husband, Mike Moffit, telephoned our office afterward in anguish. We promised to help him try to track down the killers.

We now have a list of 10 key suspects. We're not ready to name them, because we don't have the final proof. But we have a pretty good idea of what happened.

We are convinced that the real culprits are the military dictators of Chile. They have used their dreaded secret police, known by the whispered name DINA, to hound leaders in exile abroad. The military junta was particularly upset with Letelier because he had maneuvered behind the scenes to block a Dutch loan to Chile.

According to our sources, DINA contacted one of the veterans of the Bay of Pigs, an officer of Brigade 2506. This was the unit that the CIA carefully trained in demolition techniques.

Allied with the brigade was a special unit called Commandos L. One member had fought in the Congo with the Cuban fighters. Another had worked for a mobster in Havana. Another was a chemist, with a talent for rigging explosives. The CIA trained them to be terrorists.

This was the killer squad, we believe, that planted the bomb under the driver's seat of Letelier's car.

But there's more to the story. In January, some of them were hauled before a secret grand jury. Suddenly, they received a stark warning on January 7 to keep their mouths shut. At least that's our interpretation of the incident.

For on January 7, Juan Jose Peruyero, a Bay of Pigs veteran, was gunned down gangland-style in front of his Miami home. We believe the execution was a warning to anyone who might be tempted to talk about the Letelier assassination.

We don't know whether the case will ever be cracked. We've done our best to keep our promise to Mike Moffit. Letelier's widow, meanwhile, has seen Attorney General Griffin Bell, and reminded him quietly that her husband was killed six months ago while he was under the protection of the United States.

Luxurious Lifestyle: The society pages of the Washington newspapers are often more revealing than the front pages. In Washington's political atmosphere, social acceptance is as fragile as a crystal champagne glass. The names dropped at the posh parties reflect the rise and fall of the power seekers.

Of course, the Democrats now dominate the Washington social whirl. President Carter's bright young staff chief, Hamilton Jordan, has replaced Henry Kissinger as the toast of the social set.

Some of the most ostentatious parties are held in the ornate rooms of the Capitol building. Any senator or congressman can reserve a room simply by writing a letter to the Senate Rules Committee or the Speaker's office.

Then he can invited his friends for a bash under the tinkling cut-glass chandeliers. He can borrow a dozen or two potted palms from the National Botanical Gardens to give the room a romantic atmosphere.

All he has to pay for is the food and drink. But the Senate and House food services will cater his party inexpensively. Everything else — the rooms, the palms, the clean-up crews — can be charged to the taxpayers.

Even when the Senate is in session, senators can duck into one of the private Capitol rooms for a drink. Here they can find the stimulation that might be lacking in a dull debate.

For years, the late Sen. Wayne Morse led a lonely campaign against these unlicensed bars. The thought of inebriated senators casting votes on vital national issues upset him.

But colleagues looked on Morse's opposition as a quaint idiosyncrasy. And the festivities between roll calls went happily on, unhindered by the Senate and unreported by the press.

Other rooms are dedicated to the further comfort and convenience of our legislators. There are steam baths to help senators recover from the rigors of law-making. There are also two swimming pools where they can cavort in the nude to soothe tired muscles. And on the House side, congressmen enjoy similar privileges in their own cloistered surroundings.

Taken together, all this forms a pattern of living that can be likened to the excesses of the Roman Empire, whose palaces gave birth to the architectural form on Capitol Hill.

continue working at their own rate. At the same time, they must be ready with help for the problem areas and praise for success. They must organize and conduct a class so that two or three activities can be going on simultaneously and still maintain an atmosphere conducive to learning.

I feel very strongly that Andover has many, not just some, dedicated and competent teachers who willingly devote many hours over and above the seven hour school day.

Perhaps our first concern is education, but why not? Can you think of a more important concern to a teacher than the education of his or her students?

The controversy between traditional vs. contemporary education should not override our main objective which is to provide a valuable and meaningful education for all the children in Andover.

It's about time that parents and teachers realized what an excellent school system we have and started working together to provide some positive reinforcement.

Election Tactics

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
As a very "concerned parent" of four children in the Andover school system, I deeply resent the tactics of the above committee.

I have two very simple questions for them and for all the townspeople of Andover

1. Why don't these "concerned citizens" ever identify themselves?

2. Why do they always wait until the Saturday before elections to distribute their "surprise messages" when there is no chance for rebuttal by all candidates?

My "surprise message" went the way of all anonymous letters . . . into the circular file, otherwise known as the wastebasket!

Positive Approach

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

There has been a great deal of publicity about the educational system and climate in the town of Andover. Unfortunately, much of this publicity has been negative and left many people with unfavorable feelings about the direction of the Andover School System.

As a teacher in the town of Andover for the past nine years, I feel I must respond. Let me start by saying I was born and brought up in Andover, and attended the Andover Public Schools. My father, Roy A. Russell, was a member of the Andover School Committee for six years and served as chairman for four of those years. I, therefore, feel I have a substantial knowledge as to the educational concerns in this town.

I have seen the educational system in Andover change from a "traditional" approach to a "contemporary" approach, and now either alternative is available. However, the popular connotation of a contemporary approach to learning seems to imply less discipline, and fewer expectations demanded from the students. It is true that "contemporary" education provides an individualized approach to learning, but shouldn't children be dealt with as individuals with emphasis on each child's problems, interests, abilities, and progress?

The individualized programs require a great deal of organization, motivation, structure, and discipline in order to operate successfully. AIRS (Andover's Individualized Reading System) has been recognized as one of the top ten in the country. Surely this indicates a certain amount of success.

Teachers must be consistently aware of individual needs. They must conduct group seminars while allowing other students to Robert M. Henders, president of the Andover Savings Bank, has just returned from Washington, D.C., where he met with other savings bank leaders with Secretary W. Blumenthal and other officials of the Carter administration.

The off-the-record were sponsored by the Association of Mutual Banks in cooperation with industry's various organizations. They were held to provide the savings industry's leadership opportunity to meet with government officials for a mutual exchange of views on national and regional housing concerns.

Henders also met with Chairman Charles E. Starnes, a member of the President's Council on Economic Advisors, and Chairman Arthur F. Board of governors Patricia R. Harris, the department of Urban Development.

One major topic of discussion was financial reform legislation, which is to be introduced in Congress this year. Such legislation would allow savings institutions to provide the public a full range of financial services. It would also create a federal chartering system for mutual savings banks, savings banks, and other financial institutions, thereby limiting to state continue working at their own rate. At the same time, they must be ready with help for the problem areas and praise for success. They must organize and conduct a class so that two or three activities can be going on simultaneously and still maintain an atmosphere conducive to learning.

I feel very strongly that Andover has many, not just some, dedicated and competent teachers who willingly devote many hours over and above the seven hour school day.

Perhaps our first concern is education, but why not? Can you think of a more important concern to a teacher than the education of his or her students?

The controversy between traditional vs. contemporary education should not override our main objective which is to provide a valuable and meaningful education for all the children in Andover.

Henderson Meets With Top Carter Officials

Robert M. Henderson, president of the Andover Savings Bank has just returned from Washington, D.C., where he and other savings bank industry leaders met with Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and other ranking officials of the Carter Administration.

The off-the-record meetings were sponsored by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks in cooperation with the industry's various state organizations. They were designed to provide the savings bank industry's leadership with an opportunity to meet with federal government officials for an informal exchange of views on key national and regional economic and housing concerns.

Henderson also met with chairman Charles E. Schultze and members of the presidents council of economic advisers; with chairman Arthur F. Burns and members of the Federal Reserve board of governors; and with Patricia R. Harris, secretary of the department of Housing and Urban Development.

One major topic of discussion was financial restructuring legislation, which is expected to be introduced in congress later this year. Such legislation would allow savings institutions to offer the public a full range of consumer financial services, and would also create an alternative federal chartering system for mutual savings banks. At present, savings banks are alone among financial institutions in being limited to state charters.

During the series of Washington meetings, the savings banker delegation also met with top officials of the Coming back from injury, Andover's Betsy Reid soared to second place in the aerial event at the national amateur freestyle skiing tournament. Betsy also scored seconds in ballet and moguls against the country's best amateur freestylers to be runnerup in the Junior III division.

Betsy Reid Scores High

A lack of snow in the Rocky mountains helped Betsy Reid of Andover win runner-up honors at the United States Ski association's national freestyle tournament, held recently at Mount Telemark, Casble, Wisc.

Injury prevented the 14-year-old East Junior High student from competing in the Easter division regional meet and qualifying for the nationals.

The sparse snow and the resulting dearth of practice and competition reduced the number of Rocky Mountain qualifiers and gave Betsy a chance to attend the nationals as an alternate choice on the basis of her record in area competition, in the Junior III girls division.

At Mount Telemark, Betsy joined the top freestylers in the country in competing in three events: aeriels, ballet and moguls.

Aeriels involves leaps off a special jump, stressing height and acrobatic maneuvers rather than distance.

Ballet demonstrates rhythm, grace and fluidity of movement in perfect synchronization to music while skiing downhill. Moguls is a spure skiing event, generally regarded as the pioneer concept of freestyle. The skier blasts downhill at top speed, riding through, around and over a formidable-looking series of man-made bumps.

Betsy was second in all three events to amass a total of 116.44 points. First place honors went to Daryl Redin of East Longmeadow, Mass. who won the mogul and aerial events and finished 6th in ballet for 121.4 points. Alice Gigliotti of New Ashford was third overall with 112.6 points for an all-Massachusetts sweep.

Betsy has been competing in freestyle since she was nine, skiing at Wildcat Mountain, N. H. Not coincidentally she also competes in gymnastics at both the school and AAU levels.

In addition to her national honors, Betsy was Eastern all-around champion in her age category, New Hampshire state champion for four years, and is the 1977 Maine titlist in Junior III.

She is a member of the Sugarloaf freestyle team.

Andover Stars Win Boston Title

The Andover Stars Basketball Team (7th graders) coached by Frank Monette and assistant Howie Larrabee won the Greater Boston Pre-teen Basketball Championship this past week.

Coch Monette pulled together the team last year and they played in four tournaments and won them all.

They played in the 6th grade tournaments, and won nine games without a loss. This year they are competing in the 7th grade tournaments and have already won the Chelmsford Invitational Tournament, the Andover Youth Basketball Invitational Tournament and now the Greater Boston Pre-Teen Tournament.

There are several reasons why the team has been so successful. The Andover Stars offense has been awesome as they have averaged 54 points a game this season holding their opponents to 34 points a game for a 20 point victory margin per game average. They have been equally effective against a man-to-man or zone defenses that have been played against them. The Andover Stars when forced to, run a 1-2-1 full court press very well.

The Andover Stars toughest opponents over the last two years have been Methuen, Woburn and Winchester. All three of these teams led in the fourth quarter against the Andover Stars, one team by as many as 11 points with two minutes to go in the game and Andover on all three occasions went into their now famous press and came back to win the games outscoring each of the teams by large margins in the final quarter. Against Methuen, Andover was down by eight points with three minutes left in the game and outscored them 20-11 in the last quarter. Against Winchester, Andover was down by 9 points with two minutes and twenty seconds to go and won by outscoring them 24-6 in the final quarter. Against Woburn they pulled off their most spectacular victory as they were behind in the game by as many as 19 points and were losing by 11 points with two minutes and 15 seconds to go in the game and came back to win the game, as they outscored Woburn 27-13 in the final quarter. The Andover players play a ball-hawking man-to-man defense when not using the press. The players are very talented and most have learned many of the fundamentals as well as can be expected from players of this age.

Coch Monette usually carries from a twelve to a fifteen boy roster and said that nine of them can actually be considered starters.

Leading the team in scoring is forward Ted Kelley with 140 points for a 17.5 average per game. He had 26 against Methuen and was MVP of the Chelmsford Tournament. He has also pulled down 71 rebounds besides leading the team in free-throw shooting. Forward Mike White has 55 points and 58 rebounds. Center Bill Caselden has 45 points but missed two games and 65 rebounds. Guard Carmen Scarpa has 38 points and leads the team in assists 32 and steals 41. Guard Phil Farr has 33 points but missed two games and 30 rebounds, 10 assists and second on the team in steals with 28. Guard E.J. Perry 28 points, and is second on the team in assists with 11 and third in steals with 23. Forward Tim Hart has 38 points and 49 rebounds. Forward Don Minor who missed three games had 20 points and 17 rebounds.

Other players who have contributed to the team with defense and floor play in limited action are Craig Horgan, Dick Kelley, Chuck Frazzette, Steve Stethers, Dave Barker, Jim Burke, Andy Emmert, Scott Tobey, Scott Zimmerman, Connie Twomey, Joe Zemis, Tom Powers, John

Robbins and Derek Cevruela. 35
Statisticians for the team are Mark Paro and Jeff Saulnier. Coach Monette points out there have been many heroes on the team and every game someone on the team makes a few key plays or takes up the slack when the team slows down.

Babe Ruth Tryouts Planned

The Andover Babe Ruth baseball team will hold its annual tryouts on Saturday and Sunday, April 16 and 17 from 2-4 p.m. both days at the large Playstead Field behind East Junior High.

Candidates must be between the ages of 13 and 15, and cannot turn 16 before August 1, 1977.

The team will play a 24 game regular season schedule in the Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League, plus a number of pre-season and possibly playoff games.

A number of Andover players will also be selected to the 14-15 year old and 13 year old All-Star Tournament teams, both of which have reached the State and New England finals over the past two years.

Other league members include North Andover, Tower Hill, South Lawrence West, North Lawrence, Prospect Hill and South Lawrence East.

Plans are also underway for the fourth annual Andover team trip to Montreal, Canada.

Highlights of the trip are several games against Canadian youth teams, attendance at a Montreal Expos game, a visit to the "Man and His World" exhibition, swim sessions and a number of other activities.

While in Montreal the team will be based at McGill University.

Andover has placed among the top three teams in the G-L league for three straight summers, and 10 of the last 12 years. Only twice in the 24 year existence of the league has Andover failed to reach the post season playoffs.

For further information, contact Rick Harrison or Ed Kelley.

Last year's team was 23-8 and the composite record for the last three seasons is 66-23-1.

Mrs. Poore, in opposition on the matter, said Wednesday:

"That review indicated that at least in the context of the past performance as Town Manager, did not warrant re-election in future years."

Voter Turnout Light

In the lightest voter turnout in many years Monday, Andover voters elected two new selectmen, and for the first time since 1958, defeated an incumbent selectmen.

Also the 4,806 voters, less than a third of the total 15,000 plus registered, chose two new school committee members and almost place a relatively new resident of the community on the housing authority.

With the issue of the manager's contract a highlight of the campaign for the two three-year terms on the board of selectmen, the voters chose Albert Cole Jr., and Edward M. Harris, who had campaigned on retaining J. Maynard Austin as manager.

Selectman Janet D. Lake, who was one four selectmen the most important matter at the moment is the board organizing itself.

Both newly-elected selectman Albert Cole Jr. and Edward M. Harris, who campaigned on the manager's retention, indicated that they would move in that direction and seek reconsideration of the vote sometime soon.

Cole indicated he would like to have some time to work with the manager under the new board before making the decision.

Mrs. Poore, in outlining her position on the manager issue said Wednesday:

"The decision not to renew Mr. Austin's contract as Andover's Town Manager was made last year, by a 4-1 vote of the Board, after a carefully measured review of Mr. Austin's performance."

"That review indicated that, at least in the context in which he had been working, Mr. Austin's performance as Town Manager did not warrant renewal for future years."

"A relatively new board has now been seated — with four out of five members having been elected within the past year and a fifth to be selected shortly. It is entirely possible that, with this new Board, Mr. Austin's performance on the job will, in fact, merit a different conclusion in the coming months."

"I suggest that the most prudent course for the Board to follow is to focus on the numerous problems facing us in the coming months. In a reasonable period of time — the Board may again appraise Mr. Austin's performance under the leadership of this new board. Members of the Board may then determine whether the new composition of the Board has in fact enabled Mr. Austin to fulfill his duties at a level acceptable for renewal."

who voted in January not to renew the manager's contract, was defeated, representing the first loss by an incumbent since 1958. At that time, the new town manager charter was to take effect and a five member board elected. The three incumbent selectmen who sought new terms on the board were all defeated.

While there were other issues in the campaign, the manager's tenure was the one which held the most attention, with both Cole and Harris indicating their intent to retain Austin and Mrs. Lake defending her action.

Total votes for the selectmen race showed Cole leading the field with 3,210 votes, Harris second with 2,617, 198 votes ahead of Mrs. Lake who had 2,419.

Casimir J. Kolaski, 15 Carisbrooke St. and Alan W. Doerr, 108 Cross St., were elected to the three year terms on the school committee.

For Kolaski, who led the ticket with 3,147 votes, it was a victory to be cherished, in view of his close contest for a school board berth a year ago in which he lost by two votes.

Doerr, making his first bid for political office, captured the second spot with 2,361 votes, 468 more than James H. Flaherty, III, 11 Jefferson Lane. Charles E. Friese, 52 Pleasant St., who indicated he would be a candidate again in another year, received 788 votes.

Kolaski and Doerr will replace Francis J. Griggs and George F. Olesen who did not seek re-election, Griggs after a second term and Olesen completing his first.

In the race for housing authority where a vacancy existed due to the resignation of John B. White, Atty. Richard Savrann was a 51-vote winner of Dennis Grogan.

Savrann has been serving on the housing authority as a state appointee. He is currently in a holdover status, since he was appointed by the Gov. Sargent administration.

Grogan, who is employed by the Somerville Housing Authority, made an impressive run for the office, getting 1988 votes to Savrann's 2,037.

Moderator William J. Dalton, unopposed was the top vote getter on Monday with 3,829 votes. Earl Effinger, elected Punchard Free School Trustee to fill a vacancy, got 3,754 votes.

Indicative of so-called "bullet" voting — a vote cast for one candidate where two are to be elected — was the number of blanks registered in both the selectmen race. There were 1,360 blanks, according to the final totals, indicating that many single decisions were 1976 was the best year in the history of Gas Company, according to an annual report to shareholders.

"A significant milestone was reached in 1976 when the company's annual revenue reached $100 million for the first time," said Charles H. Tenney II, chairman of the directors, stated in the report.

The Bay State Gas Company serves 56 communities in southeastern, northwestern and central Massachusetts.

Tenney told shareholders that the company's increasing problems of supply, financing and government relations, combined with summer concerns, present significant challenges to management. He added that the company's containment, which has been a major concern of investors, is increasing scrutiny in the company is committed to non-productive expenses to maintain the operational ability permitting reductions in periods.

The company reported relative strong gas sales through long range and was able to meet demands brought temperatures 37 percent for the last four months than the same period.

The company listed financial objectives for 1977:

1. To keep share borrowings at the lowest level.

2. To maintain the structure with a relatively common equity ratio.

3. To continue strict control systems.

Gas Co. Revenues Up

1976 was the best operating year in the history of Bay State Gas Company, according to its annual report issued to shareholders.

"A significant milestone was reached in 1976 when the company's annual revenues exceeded $100 million for the first time," Charles H. Tenney II, president and chairman of the board of directors, stated in the report.

The Bay State Gas Company serves 56 communities in southeastern, northern and western areas of Massachusetts.

Tenney told shareholders that the increasingly complex problems of supply, marketing, financing and governmental relations, combined with consumer concerns, present significant challenges to utility management. He added that cost containment, which benefits consumer and investor, will receive increasing scrutiny in 1977 as the company is committed to avoid non-productive expense and to maintain the operational flexibility permitting sharp cost reductions in periods of stress.

The company reported it had a relative strong gas supply position through long range planning and was able to meet the demands brought about by temperatures 37 percent colder for the last four months of 1976 than the same period in 1975.

The company listed three financial objectives for 1977:

1. To keep short-term borrowings at the lowest possible level.
2. To maintain the capital structure with a relatively high common equity ratio.
3. To continue stringent cost control systems.

Meeting these objectives will help to limit the need for rate relief, according to the report.

The company financed its 1976 construction program of $6,976,- 000, and reduced its short-term borrowing by $4,400,000 during the past year. The capital budget for 1977 is $7,800,000. In line with our objectives, we have been studying the refinancing of the short-term debt outstanding and are planning to reduce the amount outstanding from the proceeds of 250,000 shares of new common stock and sales of long-term notes. The source and exact timing of this financing will depend on conditions in the capital markets.

Despite curtailment of natural gas supplies by the company's two pipeline suppliers, Algonquin Gas Transmission Co. and

Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, Bay State was able to develop supplemental supplies to offset any deficiencies through planning.

The company modernized its LP air gas facilities and made a long-term contract for propane with Exxon Company, USA, and Petrolene Northeast Gas Service, Inc., two major suppliers.
 Another long-term contract was signed with Algonquin's Freetown SNG plant for SNG.
 Also, LNG is supplied to the company by Distrigas Corporation of Massachusetts from abroad.

Extensive LNG facilities are located in all of Bay State's divisions for the storage of liquid natural gas during the summer months for use during the winter.

Bay State is also involved in the development of its own under-ground storage facilities through two subsidiaries, two other gas utilities and a pipeline transmission company in Kentucky.

The company has filed with the department of Public Utilities to form Bay State Exploration, Inc.
 Upon regulatory approval, this new subsidiary will be utilized to develop on-shore gas reserves.

Old Faithful.

New Faithful.

Good Old Faithful. Always got you where you were going. Always did it economically. And now, after 27 years and 33 million cars, it's still a symbol of dependability and economy.

Now there's a car that's just as reliable and economical as Old Faithful ever was. It's New Faithful. The 1977 VW Rabbit.
 With engineering so advanced that automotive experts have hailed it as the kind of car Detroit will be building in the 1980's.

The Rabbit has a new fuel injection system, so it starts up quick as a bunny. Springs like one, too. 0 to 50 in just 7.7 seconds. The Rabbit also has advanced engineering features like negative steering, roll radius, rack and pinion steering, and an independent stabilizer rear axle.

New Faithful lives up to Old Faithful's reputation for economy, too. Because it has fuel injection, you can use the most economical grade of gas. But you won't have to use it very often. Rabbit gets 37 mpg on the highway, 24 in the city.

 (That's EPA's estimate for manual transmission. Actual mileage may vary, depending on driving habits, car's condition and optional equipment.)

Dependability and economy. That's what Old Faithful gave a whole generation of Americans. And that's what New Faithful is giving a whole new generation of Americans.
 New Faithful. The 1977 VW Rabbit.

period, to objectively assess Mr. Austin's performance in the role of Town Manager. My vote at that time will be determined by the evidence of effectiveness — or lack of effectiveness — that he demonstrates during this trial period. The Board will be able to express its view at that time as to Mr. Austin's ability to serve the town of Andover as the chief administrative officer responsible to this new Board of Selectmen."

Selectman Bowen commenting on the manager issue, said "Most assuredly the matter of the town manager's tenure will be raised with the board of selectmen — and soon."

"On the other hand, and consistent with views which have been stated to the previous board of selectmen and publicly as well, the board first must be willing and able to organize itself to carry out its important responsibilities in some timely, systematic and informed fashion. In the absence of such organization, neither the board or the town manager can perform in such ways as to be effective and permit the kind of critical examination that our system of town government requires."

Selectman Harris said he intends to work toward resolving the manager issue and would like to see Austin retained. Prior to the announcement by French on Tuesday, he considered a number one priority.

Selectman Cole said he had campaigned on the issue of retaining the manager but would not move for an immediate vote on the matter. He felt several weeks should elapse and allow time for the board to develop policy for the manager and allow the manager to work with the new board and see what a difference in attitude produces under the different atmosphere.

Snow Blanket Provides Shrubs Some Protection

New England's long, cold and snowy winter has caused some damage to trees, shrubs and other garden plants, but the heavy snow blanket provided some protection and the situation this spring may be not so bad after all, according to Donald J. Ward, Great Barrington nurseryman who is president of the 66-year old New England Nurserymen's Association.

"Now is the time to stop worrying about the winter and concentrate on the spring maintenance jobs ahead," Ward urged. "What should we expect from the heavy snow and cold in regard to trees and shrubs? The two main problems will be winter kill or die back, and browning. These conditions are caused by insufficient mulch around the roots or by the lack of fertilizer and water during autumn. Several solutions for these problems this spring would be: prune off damaged branches and twigs; fertilize well and mulch.

"Bright winter sun and harsh winds also cause problems such as the tree bark splitting. A remedy for this is to seal cracks and splits in the bark with pruning paint and wrap the trunk with tree paper.

"Because of the recent weather, flowering trees and shrubs, such as azaleas, rhododendrons, dogwoods and forsythia, may not bloom fully this spring. The reason there may be fewer flowers is that the flower buds, which were formed during the autumn have been exposed to very cold temperatures and severe winter winds. Consequently, they may have been damaged, especially those not protected under the snow. The secret is to enjoy any blossoms you see this spring!

Bloodhounds can detect a scent up to 10 days old.

Westcott Elected Regional Superintendent

Associate Supt. Harry Westcott will leave Andover at the end of the school year to become superintendent of Fall Mountain Regional School District in western New Hampshire.

Westcott came to Andover three years ago with a brand new Ph.D. in education from the University of South Dakota. But he had previously been a superintendent for seven years in two Rhode Island systems — Jamestown and Scituate — and this week he said that though he'd had "a real great experience here" under Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert, he wanted to be a superintendent again himself.

His appointment was announced by the 11-member regional school board last week, and now hinges only on approval by the New Hampshire State Department of Education. Westcott will be introduced to his new patrons at a Town Meeting Saturday.

Westcott will finish out the school year here and report July 1 to his office in Charlestown — one of the six small towns in the Connecticut River Valley north of Keene that make up the district. The others include Walpole, Acworth, Marlow, and Langdon, home of a 1,000-pupil regional high school for grades 9 through 12. Each town has its own primary (Grades K through 4) and elementary (Grades 5 through 8) schools.

One of Westcott's main challenges will be establishing a cohesiveness within the district, since the old rivalries between the six towns still exist in many areas.

It's sort of like 1776 revisited, he says — trying to get the colonies to agree, and be one cohesive unit.

The regional system is "very traditional" with two two-room schools and one four-room school, and 2500 pupils all told.

Westcott was hired for the newly created position of associate superintendent here — with the special responsibility of curriculum — shortly after the controversial firing of former Asst. Supt. Edward P. Regan.

He considers his years here sort of a "post doctorate internship" during which he learned a lot — particularly about the "care and feeding of school committee men who have divergent views."

He says he also has had the

experience of working with some very articulate people whose desires were very strong — in the area of traditional education — and who didn't agree with the school department. Yet, he says, we were able to come together.

He considers that one of the major accomplishments of his tenure here, along with the establishing of internal criterion reference testing, the setting up of norms for reading and math and of standards for science (they're working on social studies) and the setting up of some alternatives such as the Core program and evening school at Andover High.

Westcott is quick to add that he can't claim these achievements personally — but would like to think his participation in them "had something to do with their being successfully launched."

Westcott in his pre-Andover years had also not worked in a community with the double structure of a superintendent and a town manager, much less an assistant town manager. He had previously worked directly with a town council, and says he found it much more directly satisfying here to get to somebody in particular.

He says he has also had "more solid sense of planning."

"This is a moving system rather than a reacting one," he says, adding that Seifert is always three to five months ahead in the short run and three to five years ahead in the long run. "He knows when something's going to happen."

One of the biggest problems he anticipates in his new job, in addition to regionalism, is being educationally strong with a minimum budget. He says there is virtually no state support for education in New Hampshire (therefore no flurry over Cherry Sheets). You could double the state funding and New Hampshire could still be 50th in the nation, he says.

This will also be Westcott's introduction, as superintendent, to a "new era."

When he left his last superintendency in 1972, he says, educators were still thinking like the 60's, when they were trying to build "a school a year" and beating the bushes for teachers. The 70's, he says, have turned to an emphasis on academic curriculum, accountability and fiscal responsibility.

"Now you're worrying about what to do with the school space you have and there are 100 teachers for every vacancy."

Westcott says there were 150 applications for the post he'll be filling.
